

Costly home phone service has gone the way of the telegram.

Ooma lets you make free¹ U.S. local and long distance calls over the Internet. Just pay applicable taxes and fees and never worry about paying for another phone call again. To get started, just plug your high-speed Internet connection and regular home phone into Ooma, and you're ready to call anywhere in the U.S. for free. And unlike some other VoIP systems, the voice quality is reliable and crystal clear and there's no need for a PC or a headset—just use your phone like you normally would.

FAQs

Can I transfer my old home phone number?

There is a one-time transfer fee, or it's free with a one-year subscription to Ooma Premier. Ooma works with your phone company and takes care of the number transfer for you.

What about 911 service?

We've got you covered. Ooma offers enhanced 911 service, which automatically transmits your registered service address to public safety officials answering emergency calls.

How is the voice quality using Ooma?

Ooma's PureVoice technology is designed to deliver the unmatched clarity, security and reliability of a landline. Ooma uses only a small fraction of your Internet bandwidth so your calls don't bog down your other online activities.

Does the person on the other end have to own an Ooma?

No. Ooma allows you to call anyone with a U.S. phone number, free of charge. International calls are incredibly cheap and if the person you're calling overseas also has an Ooma, then Ooma to Ooma is always free.

How does Ooma compare to other VoIP service?

Ooma is a standalone device that does not require a computer. There is no software to install and no need to wear a special headset. Ooma replaces your current phone service and uses Ooma PureVoice technology to deliver clear, landline voice quality calling over your existing phone and high-speed Internet connection.
